Question 1

Question 2

Average tax and Average Price of Cigaretts

Question 3

Average sales per capita

Question 5

Apart from North Carolina, the top 5 highest states in tax increase seem to start higher, and have a steeper slope. By 2019, it looks like the sales from the highest taxes are lower than the ones from the lowest taxes.

Question 6

Elasticity with OLS
(Intercept)	(3.172) 3.172 (0.285)
log_sales	(−0.733) −0.733 (0.059)
Num.Obs.	1071
R2	0.126
R2 Adj.	0.125
AIC	1262.1
BIC	1272.1
RMSE	0.44
Std.Errors	IID

Question 7

Elasticity with IV
(Intercept)	(4.715) 4.715 (0.009)
fit_log_price	(−0.270) −0.270 (0.017)
Num.Obs.	1071
R2	0.084
R2 Adj.	0.083
AIC	−244.1
BIC	−234.1
RMSE	0.22
Std.Errors	IID

These estimates are different. It is likely that there are variables in our first regression, that are correlated with both, sales and price, thus biasing the results. Using an IV in the second model, we are reducing the variation in price to the variation caused by variation in taxation with time. This would produce an unbiased result of the ATE as long as the relevance and exclusion restriction assumptions are met.
